

Maya Hu-Chan

Expertise:

Maya is an international management consultant, executive coach, speaker, leadership development educator. She specializes in global leadership, executive coaching, and cross-cultural training.

Harvard Business School has chosen her book “Global Leadership: The Next Generation” (Financial Times/Prentice Hall, 2003) to be one of their Working Knowledge recommended books. This book was translated and published in Mandarin Chinese.

Education:

Born and raised in Taipei, Taiwan, Maya is fluent in Chinese and English. She received her B.A. in Journalism and Business Management from National Chengchi University in Taiwan, and Master’s degree from Annenberg School of Communications at the University of Pennsylvania.

Clients:

Maya has coached over 3,000 leaders in “Global Fortune 100” companies as well as public sectors to improve their leadership competency. She has worked with major corporations throughout North America, Asia, Europe, South America, and Australia.

Her clients (partial list) include: Agilent, Allergan, American Airlines, Applied Biosystems, Arco, AT&T, Budget Rent-a-Car, Callaway Golf, Chase Manhattan Bank, Cisco Systems, City of San Diego, Conexant, Detroit Edison, Ericsson, Fluor, General Motor, Honeywell, John Hancock, Johnson & Johnson, Kodak, KPMG, Labatt Breweries, Las Vegas Metro Police, Lever Brothers Thailand, Los Angeles Police Department, Merck, Nokia, Northern Telecom, Northrop Grumman, Novellus, Ortho McNeil, Parker Hannifin, Qualcomm, Schering-Plough, Sematech, Shell, Siemens, Southern California Edison, Sun Microsystems, Texaco, Texas Instruments, Toyota, Unocal, U.S. Postal Service, UBS, University of Chicago, University of Southern California, and Warner Lambert.

Publications:

In addition to “Global Leadership: The Next Generation”, Maya is also the Contributing author to the following:

“Leading the Global Workforce” (Jossey-Bass, 2005)
“Best Practices in Leading the Global Workforce” (Linkage, 2004)
“Coaching for Leadership: How the World’s Greatest Coaches Help Leaders Learn” (Jossey-Bass, 2002)
“Partnering: The New Face of Leadership” (AMACOM, 2000)
“A Study in Excellence: Management in the Nonprofit Human Services” (1989)

In addition, she is the author of the following publications:

- AT&T Leadership Competencies Resource Guide
- Budget Values: Personal Development Resource Guide
- Calpers Leadership Resource Guide
- Eastman Kodak Company Leadership Inventory Resource Guide
- Johnson & Johnson Global Leadership Profile Development Guide
- Johnson & Johnson Advanced Manager Leadership Development Guide
- Johnson & Johnson Executive Leadership Development Guide
- Johnson & Johnson Individual Contributor Leadership Development Guide
- MediaOne Executive Development Resource Guide
- MediaOne Leadership Development Resource Guide
- Mirage Leadership Resource Guide
- Northern Telecom Manager’s Resource Guide
- Schering-Plough Leadership Characteristics Resource Guide
- SIEMENS Coaching Manual
- Sun Microsystems Learning Prescriptions

She also has an extensive list of publications of Management, Leadership, Global Business Skills, Multicultural Team-Building, and Leadership Development Resource Guide (translated in German, French, and Spanish) as well as a well-received series of Doing Business in China, Taiwan, South Korea, Japan, Malaysia, and Singapore.

Experiences:

Maya is the president of ACP, Inc., a management consulting firm based in San Diego, California. Prior to founding her company, Maya was an anchor for the China Broadcasting Company in Taiwan and the Executive Director of the San Diego Chinese Center. She has lectured at the University of California, San Diego and University of Southern California, and the International MBA program at University of Chicago.

Honors, Professional Affiliation & Community Involvement:

- Leading the Global Workforce Best Practice Award – by Linkage Incorporated, 2004
- Co-chair of the International Advisory Board, Worldwide Association of Business Coaches (WABC)
- Honorary Chairperson of the Business Advisory Council, The National Republican Congressional Committee
- Former Board of Director for the Girl Scouts, San Diego-Imperial County; Commission of the Status for Women (City of San Diego); Workforce Development Council; and Asian Business Association of San Diego.

Personal Information:

Maya lives in San Diego, California with her husband and 8-year-old triplets.